White Paper from Medical Access USA on Direct Primary Care How a modern family of five saved 56% on healthcare via direct primary care

Nashville, TN – September 9, 2014 -- Medical Access USA, a leading provider of direct primary care (non-insurance, direct pay medical care) services, has released a white paper illustrating how a family of five saved 56% on their healthcare costs.

The paper, titled "A Modern Family Doctor Visit", illustrates how a family deals with the challenges (i.e. dealing with insurance companies, having claims denied, rising costs, Obamacare) associated with the U.S. fee-for-service healthcare system and overcomes them by switching to a more efficient and cost-effective method of care.

"The rapidly rising healthcare costs directly associated with the current fee-for-service system is putting a major financial strain on families," said Matthew Taber, Chief Operating Officer of Medical Access USA. "Medical Access USA's direct primary care system reduces this strain by simply providing affordable care.

About Medical Access USA

Medical Access USA manages the implementation of direct primary care services in communities throughout the United States. Patients receive 100% access to care and physicians (and hospitals) receive 100% reimbursement paid directly to them. Our service takes away the need for insurance (and insurance company control), which in return lowers the cost of healthcare for patients and improves the stability of physicians' practices and hospitals. Our services are legal under the Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act (aka Obamacare).
